At the Sprinkling of Holy Water.

The Antiphon, Psalm, and Gloria Patri are begun by the Precentor, and continued by the Choir. At the end of the Psalm-verse, the Precentor again intones the Antiphon, the Choir continuing. At the end of Gloria Patri, (which is never omitted, even in Passion-tide,) the Precentor begins the Antiphon at the words 'Thou shalt wash me,' (or in Paschal-tide 'and all they,') the remainder being sung by the Choir.

At the Office or Introit.

The Antiphon, Psalm & Gloria Patri are intoned by the Rulers as far as the Choir continuing. The Antiphon is sung thrice on all Sundays and Festivals, viz.: before and after the Psalm, and after Gloria Patri. On Ferias (e.g. Ash Wednesday), it is sung twice only — at the beginning and end of the Introit. The Tones and Endings of the Gloria Patri are given once for all at pp. 2—4.
At the Sprinkling of Holy Water

on all Sundays throughout the year, except in Easter-tide.
